Beware of Smishing

Smishing is a text message scam designed to trick people into sharing sensitive information with fraudsters by impersonating someone you know or an organization you trust. If you get a text telling you to click a link to log into your account or provide your login information, it's a scam. TRUE will never ask you to do that.

Protect yourself from smishing with these tips:

- Don't click text links, especially if senders are pressuring you to act quickly
- Never log into your accounts through links of any kind
- Never give out passwords or security codes to anyone, ever
- Always log in securely with the TRUE Digital Banking app or go directly to TRUECCU.com
- Block and report the scam phone number with your carrier
- Send us a screenshot of the text via your Digital Banking Message Center or Facebook Messenger to help us fight scammers, then delete the text
- Share these tips with your loved ones
